

MAJ. VANDERBILT IS HERE ON LEAVE

Border Expedition an Education, He Says—Men Much Improved

A tall man—though possibly it was his sparseness that gave the illusion of added stature—clad in a brown suit which had played hockey from the tailor's iron for many a day, stepped briskly yesterday afternoon from the elevator at 30 Pine Street into a suite of modest offices on the eleventh floor, which the building directory proclaims is the business address of "C. Vanderbilt."

It was Major Cornelius Vanderbilt—baked and bronzed and hardened—just returned on a furlough from army headquarters at McAllen, Tex. The major's old cordiality has not left him, but there was a certain precise formality about his manner, a suggestion of crispness which is new, and betokened, no doubt, the effect of military life.

Major Vanderbilt is on his first leave of absence since he departed for the border in June. He is off for thirty days.

On O'Ryan's Staff

He is inspector-general on the staff of Major General John F. O'Ryan, commanding the New York Division, Major Vanderbilt is a lieutenant colonel in the National Guard, but when the militia was mustered into United States service he took the lower rank.

"The New York troops are in fine shape, in physique and spirit," he said yesterday. "They are a soldierly lot of men and have won high praise from regular army officers. There is less sickness among the New York men than among the regulars."

"The expedition to the border has been a great education to most of us. It has been an admirable experience. The New York men will return to civilian duties better equipped in every way. Man for man, they are healthier and more robust than when they left here in June. I am sure that they will be sent back to their regular duties with a new confidence and a new determination to make tremendous business sacrifices to remain with the colors."

Experience Confirms Opinion

"What has been the effect of your army experiences on your views on universal military service?"

"My experiences on the border," replied Major Vanderbilt, "merely confirmed the rather fixed opinion I already entertained on that subject. I always have been an advocate of universal military service. It is for the good of the nation as a whole and for each individual citizen."

Major Vanderbilt was asked whether he thought the army could be raised to the 200,000 standard by volunteer enlistments under the present system, and for his opinion of the concrete results of the federalization of the National Guard.

"I am still in the United States service," he replied. "Those are things I cannot discuss."

On his arrival the major was met by Mrs. Vanderbilt, who came from Newport. To-day they will go there, where their children, Cornelius, Jr., and Miss Grace Vanderbilt, are.

J. W. HARRIMAN BUYS ESTATE

Pays $200,000 for Livermore Property at Brookville, Long Island

The country estate of Philip W. Livermore, at Brookville, in the South Shore section of Long Island, has been bought by Joseph Wright Harriman, president of the Harriman National Bank. On the property, which comprises seventy-five acres, is a large Colonial dwelling, built about ten years ago. The price paid for the property was about $200,000.

In the last two years this estate has been occupied by Victor Morawetz and Howard C. Brookway.

WAGG SLATED TO HEAD REALTY MEN OF STATE

Three-Day Convention Opens To-day at Long Beach

Alfred H. Wagg, of this city and Malverne, Long Island, is slated to be elected president of the Real Estate Association of this state, which opens its annual three-day convention this morning at Long Beach, Long Island.

At a recent meeting the executive committee of the organization decided to recommend to the nominating committee that he be the successor of Leo Day Woodworth, of Rochester.

Mr. Wagg will be the general chairman of the convention.

This is expected to be one of the most important conventions of real estate interests ever held. The leading members of the organization are in favor of the establishment of a tax-payers' bureau at Albany, and such a bureau will undoubtedly be opened at the State Capitol next year.

Among the speakers at the session this morning will be Nelson P. Lewis, chief engineer, Board of Estimate, his subject being "The Traffic Problem from the Real Estate Point of View."

At 2:30 o'clock a conference on taxation problems will be held, with Senator Ogden L. Mills presiding. Martin Saxe, president of the State Tax Board; Professor E. R. A. Seligman, of Columbia University; J. P. Zoller, tax attorney of the General Electric Company of Schenectady, and Attorney General Woodbury, of this state, will take part in that tax discussion. Other speakers at the afternoon session will be: Jerome H. Fort, of Oneida, on "Rural Real Estate Problems"; Raymond E. Porter, president Syracuse Real Estate Board, on "Business, Industry and the Land"; and J. P. Zoller, on "The Torrens System of Land Title Registration."

TOWER SUICIDE'S WILL FILED

Man Who Leaped from Singer Building Left Less than $5,000

Albert Goldman, seventy-six-year-old victim of tuberculosis, who committed suicide on August 16 by leaping from the Singer Building tower, left an estate of less than $5,000, which will be filed yesterday in the Surrogate's Court.

The will, made in El Paso, Tex., on May 10, three months before the death of the testator, left the estate to three sons, with the exception of $150, which was to be used to pay a note. On August 1, as though Goldman contemplated the fatal leap, he added a codicil in which he provided that his sister, with whom he was living, was to receive $150.

Berlin Reports 400 Soldiers Killed—London Main Street Wrecked

Berlin, Oct. 18 (by wireless to Sayville, N. Y.)—Eye-witnesses of the Zeppelin attack on England on September 23 report, according to the Overseas News Agency, that bombs hit the Grimby barracks, killing more than 400 soldiers, and that about sixty men were killed on board a cruiser hit by a bomb. It is said that Regent Street, London, was for the most part laid in ruins.

"Eye-witnesses state that more than one hundred buildings were badly damaged, some of them being completely wrecked," says the News Agency. "The damage is estimated at more than $10,000,000. Regent Street, London, which is the main artery of commerce, was for the most part laid in ruins. In a southern suburb of London an ammunition factory was blown up. In Liverpool bridge and tracks were damaged so badly that it will be impossible to use them for a long time. Several hospital tanks near the Thames were damaged."

"The Grimby barracks were hit and more than 400 soldiers killed. A cruiser with four funnels, anchored in the harbor, was hit and about sixty killed. Two other warships were damaged badly."

"At Hull some buildings were damaged so badly that only the walls remained. Great damage was inflicted on railway stations and railroad stations at Leeds. An alcohol factory and other buildings at Portsmouth were struck, twelve cars loaded with horses were destroyed, a dock was damaged and railroad cars were blown up."

Edgar Rickard, an American, who arrived in New York yesterday on the Ryan, said to-day that he had lived within a few blocks of Regent Street until October 5. No building on Regent Street was even struck. There was no damage whatever in the metropolitan district, except at Brixton."

The official British account of the Zeppelin attack on the night of September 23, issued the following night, said no reports had been received of any military damage. It was said a considerable number of small dwelling houses and shops, two factories, a railway station and some empty railway trucks were destroyed or damaged."

BOY THIEF GUEST WHERE HE STOLE

Woman Pleads for Lad, Then Invites Him to Luncheon

George Yapp, seventeen years old, a plumber's helper, of 418 West Fortyninth Street, helped tinker with some pipes in the residence of Mrs. Elaine Hale Phillips, at 125 West Seventy-eighth Street, on Tuesday. Yesterday Yapp, seated between two detectives, was a guest at an informal luncheon at Mrs. Phillips's home.

The boy was arrested late Tuesday night as he was trying to dispose of a valuable Egyptian pearl brooch to an antique dealer in West Fifty-ninth Street. This, together with two other heirlooms which had been in the Phillips family for over 250 years, a silver mesh bag studded with precious stones and a topaz brooch were found to be missing by Mrs. Phillips after the plumbers had left.

When arraigned before Magistrate Groehl the boy confessed he had hidden the bag and the topaz brooch under some rugs in the Phillips home.

Mrs. Phillips appealed to the court for leniency for the boy, and he was permitted to go to her home to search out the hiding place. When a search was made, however, it was found the articles had been removed mysteriously from the place in which he said he had placed them.

Mrs. Phillips expressed confidence in the boy and invited him to stay at her home. As she is a widow, she has a young son, and she has a valuable collection of Egyptian and Persian jewelry, and a rare Paisley shawl, all of which she has offered for sale. She was in $1,000 bond to answer a charge of grand larceny to-day.
